Residents cannot fail to have noticed the large ‘For Sale’ board at the entrance to Kent Road. The land in question – shown by arrows – is of course the privately-owned open space areas which have been the subject of some controversy in the past year or so in regard to the cutting of the grass. Sure Start info on the Toy Library

Our Play and Borrow session at Brookenby is free and open to everyone. It gives parents, carers and children the chance to play together and try out the toys; it is also a great place to make new friends. The groups are aimed at under 5’s but during school holidays we welcome older siblings. The toy library offers parents and carers the opportunity to borrow toys for a small fee. It cost £3.00 per year membership and the toys are hired for 2 weeks at a time and cost from as little as 50p and you can hire up to 4 toys at a time. All our toys are good quality and we offer a wide range from baby toys to play sets. There are also ball pools and soft shape sets for parties. There is a selection of sensory lights and toys too. There is a catalogue available at the session so you can choose a toy for us to bring the following week.

Becoming a member couldn’t be easier all we need is for you to fill out a simple registration form and show us proof of your address.

For further information on the Toy Library please refer to the Community Groups Updates and Diary pages.

Collective Oil Buying Scheme

What Is It?
Community Lincs launched its Collective Oil Buying Scheme for domestic heating oil in January 2012. The scheme aims to save members money by bringing communities together to make the most of their joint buying power so reducing the price of oil and passing the benefit on to the scheme’s members. The scheme is open to households, businesses and community organisations that use oil to heat their homes and premises.

How To Get Involved
There are two ways you can become involved in the Collective Oil Buying scheme. One is by signing up as a member and gaining the best possible price for your heating oil and the other is to consider becoming a local co-ordinator for the scheme.

Read More  Oil Savers Scheme

The scheme continues to support a joint initiative with Lincup – Lincolnshire Credit Union, which aims to encourage regular saving and boost spending power when prices are at their lowest.

Read More  Savings

The scheme is helping Lincolnshire people cut the cost of their domestic heating bills. Over the last twelve months the scheme has purchased over 134,000 litres of heating oil for members at an average saving of 5p per litre which is £25 for a 500 litre order and £50 for a 1000 litre order. All this saving has been passed on to our members.

Our thanks to CK Polymers for this opportunity.

We Are What We Once Were

The rather obliquely worded title is intended to celebrate the importance of heritage in the life of a city, town or village.

All communities can trace their origins back to a specific point in time when the first buildings were put down. If you stand by the River Thames on a point near London Bridge and could transport yourself back 2000 years, you would find yourself looking at a steeply wooded embankment sloping down to a shallow and slow moving river with no suggestion of the great metropolis that would later appear. London of course, celebrates its heritage as a Roman town as well as its many transformations over the years. Likewise York, with its Jorvik Centre, honours its Viking connections even though it had existed for several hundred years before the arrival of the Vikings, as Roman Eboracum. Closer to home, Lincoln still bears its, albeit abbreviated, Roman name – Lindum Colonia; and Caistor draws its name from the Latin for a camp – castra.

No doubt the historians and archaeologists some 2000 years hence will be reflecting on the town of Brookenby’s origins as a military base for propeller-driven aircraft – how quaint! With this concept in mind, Wolds Events, in association with local and national bodies associated with the history of aviation, will be seeking to develop Brookenby’s aviation heritage. Initially there will be a series of talks starting on 19th October when Steve Carter, an authority on the B-17 bomber, the Sally-B, (featured in the film ‘Memphis Belle’) will start the ball rolling with ‘30 years with the Sally-B’. Watch out for further details.

Mini Air Display

A day or so before The Waddington International Airshow weekend, Brookenby was treated to an unexpected low flying helicopter maneouvring around the fields along Swinhope Road. It stayed long enough and low enough for me to take several photographs. The same could not be said of the wonderful sight of the BBMF Lancaster which flew over Brookenby and Binbrook on Saturday 6th July on its way to the airshow. How fantastic to see it dip its wings in salute but far too quick for me to grab the camera unfortunately. However, I’m sure the 145,000 visitors to the airshow didn’t miss their chance.

Lincolnshire County Council has decided it needs to save £2m from the county council’s budget and so it is proposing to drastically cut the number of libraries, including mobile libraries, from 47 to 15. However, it is consulting with the public on the new proposals so you can have your say. There were public meetings throughout July but if you go to: www.lincolnshire.gov.uk/residents/discover-libraries/libraries-consultation you can complete a questionnaire up until Monday 30th September. Below is the proposal being put forward which has been taken from the Lincolnshire County Council website:

“The initial proposal is that there continue to be 15 council-staffed libraries, namely: Tier 1 (open 50 hours per week) Boston, Gainsborough, Grantham, Lincoln, Louth, Mablethorpe, Skegness, Sleaford, Spalding and Stamford
Tier 2 (open at least 25 hours per week) Bourne, Market Rasen, Horncastle, Long Sutton and Woodhall Spa.
In addition a wide range of online services such as e-books and audio books. At the same time, local communities are being given the opportunity to either take over their local library or create their own with professional support from the council.
Despite the need for change, the council’s ambition is to keep all of Lincolnshire’s libraries open. However, this is only going to work with the support of our local communities. This consultation will help to gauge whether that appetite is there.
Residents and organisations are being asked to step forward and lend a hand. And by getting more involved you can help create a library service that better meets each community’s individual needs. If you are interested in taking over or volunteering at your local library, you can find further details in the relevant information pack available. The council will also continue to provide up to 126 mobile library stops. Those that are discontinued will be replaced by a home library service for those unable to visit the nearest alternative because of disability, age, ill health or caring responsibilities. Young people and children can have their say by filling in a children’s survey form.”

Grimsby Chums

A group of children from De Aston School have recently been to northern France to visit the Memorials and Battlefields of the First World War. This put me in mind of our own trip a couple of years ago; we had been to Vimy Ridge and Thiepval and were on our way further west........ Travelling along the ‘front line’ just outside Albert, northern France. Row upon row of dazzlingly white crosses marking the resting place of many young men from Britain and the Commonwealth on either side of the road, in beautifully kept cemeteries as a token of respect for their sacrifice. The rolling countryside, its wheat fields edged with poppies, completely at odds with the death and destruction witnessed 90 years ago. We spotted a sign “Le Grand Mine” and although the poppy in the corner signified that it was part of the “Remembrance Trail” we were not familiar with it. As with all holidays, we made time for a detour and followed the sign. It is now called the Lochnagar Mine and it is a vast crater caused by a huge explosion of TNT in tunnels dug by Royal Engineer tunnelling companies, beneath the German trenches. The idea being that the Germans would be knocked out and the follow up British infantry troops would be able to gain ground. Like so many battles in the First World War, it was not through lack of courage that the plan failed, it was the plan itself. (It should be noted that the tunnelling companies were not necessarily British but men from all over the Commonwealth especially New Zealand). We walked slowly around the crater rim trying to explain to our children what caused the ‘big hole’ and that a great many men died there, not distinguishing between nationalities. There are many small memorials as you go round, but one that caught our eye was a bench, put there in honour of the Lincolnshire Regiment, and as we got closer it was more specifically for the “Grimsby Chums”. Never having heard of the Chums on our return home, I fired up the computer and logged on to the internet. The following information I’ve taken from www.lochnagacrater.org & website.lineone.net/~eebo/history10thlincols

The Grimsby Chums was a ‘Pals’ battalion raised when Lord Kitchener called out for volunteers. Initially it was the headmaster of Wintringham Grammar School, Grimsby who raised a company of former pupils but the numbers increased so much with other men from Grimsby and outlying districts, that the task was handed over to Grimsby Town Council. Officially known as the 10th Lincoln, the Chums joined the 101st Brigade of the British 34th Division, moving to France in January 1916. They first saw front line action on 1st July 1916, the first day of the Battle of the Somme, at La Boisselle, a small village just off the Albert to Bapaume Road. They attacked the enemy position at 7.30am. At two minutes before zero hour two charges were set off close to the German trenches. The Grimsby Chums did not rush forward at zero hour but, as they were ordered to, walked in an orderly fashion into no mans land. The Germans, because of the heavy bombardment of the preceding days, had dug in. When the British guns went silent they knew an infantry attack was imminent and moved back into position, wave after wave of walking men were moving slowly towards them; easy targets. The Chums, amongst others, took shelter in the resulting crater but were pinned down by fire from both their own side and the enemy’s and were therefore trapped for the rest of the day

A few of the Chums did make it to the German reserve trenches, holding off counter attacks, they eventually had to retire due to lack of support. On the 1st July only 2 of their officers and 100 of their men returned to the British sector unwounded. With regard to the mine itself it was the biggest man made explosion ever detonated up until that time. It was witnessed by a Royal Flying Corp officer who said of it: “The whole earth heaved and flashed, a tremendous and magnificent column rose up in the sky. There was an ear splitting roar drowning all the guns, flinging the machine (his aeroplane) sideways in the repercussing air. The earth column rose higher and higher to almost 4000 ft. There it hung, or seemed to hang, for a moment in the air, like the silhouette of some great cypress tree, then fell away in a widening cone of dust and debris.” The flying officer who made this statement was called Cecil Lewis. One of the books I had taken with me to read on that particular holiday was called “Turn Right for Corfu”, a travelogue/sailing adventure written by Cecil Lewis. The small biography on the back flap mentions he flew as a pilot in the RFC during the First World War. Total coincidence!!

Limelight Theatre

Limelight's juniors with the help of just a couple of adults pulled off two short light-comedy plays over the last weekend of June to the enjoyment and amusement of friendly matinee audiences of around 35/40 at each showing. The first play, 'Nobody Famous', was well performed mostly by our teenagers who were practically word perfect throughout and the script gave us a few nice twists and turns with the scene being set entirely in a fortune teller's premises.

'The second play, 'Cal Capone', showed off not only the rapidly improving acting talents of our very youngest members but also their well practised American accents and their singing and dancing abilities. They had a great time performing this Canadian written play which was adapted locally for music specifically for the Limelight juniors and there were 4 complete beginners making their stage debuts amongst the total cast of 18. It was set in the prohibition era of 1930's America as was reflected by the well made costumes and the antics of the cast gave us plenty of laughs.'

Editor’s Comment: What a joy it was to see so many young people from the village performing with such confidence. Grateful thanks to all those from the Group – seen and unseen - who made this event possible.

Binbrook CoE Primary School
The Year 6 leaver’s play, Glint of Gold, was performed in front of a packed school hall bringing ancient Egypt to the Lincolnshire Wolds for one night only, a climbing wall was erected for a day just before the school broke up for the summer holidays with funds from Friends of Binbrook School, and the summer school trip to The Deep was a great success.

Brookenby Camera Club
We met on Wed 10th July and walked round the Tech Park. We took photos of anything of interest concentrating on camera skills: Focus, correct exposure and depth of field, the results of which were shown at the following meeting. JB

Friends of Binbrook School (FoBS)
From 4.00pm on Saturday 17th August in the Queen’s Hall, Binbrook we are holding a fundraising evening of local musical talent, including Pete & Dan from Mutual Terms and Nadia Heron. The Mended Drum will be open for refreshments and there will also be a BBQ. At the school sports day we raised £191 for the school so a big thank you to everyone for their contributions.

Happy Hearts
Happy Hearts are organising the Brookenby Village Fête on Saturday 10th August from 2.00pm till 5.00pm. Lots of stalls and games, demonstrations of Zumba and Taekwondo, all comers against the Firefighters Football Team, ice cream van on site and refreshments. It sounds great, so come and join in the fun, and meet your neighbours.

The Limelight Theatre
After the wonderful shows, “Cal Capone” and “Nobody Famous”, The Limelight Theatre Group is taking a summer recess. However, the group won’t be sitting on its laurels as some of the members will be at the music event in aid of FoBS, and will be cleaning the theatre backstage. Fantastic costumes by the way, Margaret!

Sure Start
The Toy Library will continue to operate during the school holidays on the 6th and 13th August. There is further information regarding the Toy Library service elsewhere in the newsletter. In addition, there are two coffee mornings planned for the 1st and 29th August. Have a drink and a chat, with toys and activities available for the children.

Skate Park Committee
The business plan for the skatepark is almost ready to be presented to the possible funders.

I’m A Believer

Our magnetic fuel conditioners can help reduce costs for cars and heating systems

As a supplier of magnetic fuel optimisers for vehicle engines and heating systems, I am often asked “Do they really work?” Apart from the rather obvious response “Well if they didn’t, I wouldn’t waste my time trying to sell them!”, there is an underlying scientific rationale which I am not going to try and explain in this short text - if you want the detail just go to my website as below. Suffice to say that the application of a strong enough magnetic field to a flowing supply of fuel will enable more of that fuel to be converted into useable energy. This knowledge has been around for over 100 years but in an era of cheap fuel, there was no commercial advantage to this knowledge. The one exception was that during World War II electro-magnets were fitted to aero engines to improve range and performance. It was not until the steep rises in fuel prices the latter stages of the 20th Century and the development of magnets made from ceramic compounds that magnetic fuel technology became a commercial possibility.

With petrol and diesel prices approaching £1.50 a litre, any product that can help to contain those costs is surely worth considering. The modest cost of such units - £40 for vehicle engines up to 2 litres means payback within months. The unit is fitted to the fuel supply line close to the injectors – it could not be simpler.

I have tended to concentrate on units for gas and oil-fired heating systems – a unit for the average domestic heating system will cost just £40, but I have also equipped a whole host of commercial premises including over 70 churches and church halls with savings in some cases over 20%. In addition, care homes and other residential units have benefitted. Local users include St Mark’s Church Grimsby, Boston Holy Trinity Church, Bradley Woodlands Hospital and Cherry Willingham Primary School.

However, I have also been looking further afield and have now carried out successful trials with Mid-Devon District Council, East Devon District Council and Devon County Council, with the result that there are now council offices, leisure centres and care homes in the West Country benefitting from this technology. All sales are covered by a ‘money back’ guarantee – that is how confident I am in the effectiveness of this technology. Why delay – give me a call as below or visit my website for a complete rundown on the products, history and success stories.

- No power or maintenance
- Just clamps onto fuel supply line
- Works with petrol, diesel, gas, fuel oil, LPG
- LASTS INDEFINITELY

- SAVINGS TYPICALLY 10%-20%
